

BEAR GRYLLS SURVIVAL KNIFE

Professional bug-eater and survivalist guru Bear Grylls has released his own knife with Gerber. It's got a stainless steel pommel, sharpener and flint on the sheath, and comes signed by Bear. You can get your own in November. CHECK IT: www.amazon.com

$62

OUTDOOR INTERNET RADIO

It should be summer soon, but global warming's fked the weather, so we don't know what we'll get. But PURE (a Pioneer brand) has got the soundtrack to the apocalypse covered with Oasis Flow, a weatherproof internet radio. CHECK IT: www.pure.com

$400

FUNKY IPOD CASE

Belkin, the people who probably made your router, have released a line of cases for the iPod Touch, presumably because you people out there are buying too many iPods and not enough routers. CHECK IT: www.belkin.com/au

$30

SONIC SCREWDRIVER Wii-MOTE

Dr Who is a merchandiser's wet dream, and the Wii-Mote badly needed a facelift. So when this gets released in the next month or so with Dr Who: Return to Earth, it will be a match made in Gallifrey. CHECK IT: www.officialnintendomagazine.co.uk

$TBC

INFLATABLE TIE

This beauty is completely undetectable when worn normally, but you can inflate it when you're ready for a nap on your keyboard/bulldozer/flight-control console. It's perfect for hungover mornings or after boozy work lunches, when sleep is more of a priority than work. GET IT: www.pillowtie.com

$25

NON-SLIP LADDER GUIDE

Sixteen Australians died falling off ladders last year, so if you like climbing onto gutters, it might be wise to get Ladder's Little Helper, a unique, non-slip gizmo that holds your ladder in place. CHECK IT: www.ladderslittlehelper.com

$45

LUDICROUSLY EXPENSIVE CAR WAX

UK company Brough and Howarth promise "total protection" – so if your car gets a girl in trouble, sue them. The wax is so good and rare (only one jar exists), they won't even sell it to you – you have to drive to England, where they take a little of the wax out of a solid marble pot, rub it on your car and charge over $500. What a bargain! CHECK IT: www.broughandhowarth.com

STUPID THING OF THE WEEK

$540